

SONNETEER:

TRANCEIVER

Send music from your main system to other rooms in the house or from your mp3 (iPod for example) player to your music system or Bardamplifier simply by plugging in a Bardtransmitter (picture opposite) Combined with a Bardreceiver which just plugs into your music system as if plugging in a CD player or tape deck (remember them?), press play on your player and you have favourite music filling your home. The Bardtranceiver set, as the name implies, is a combination of both of the above as a system, but they are also available separately or combined with other Bard products to provide you with a wide range of wireless possibilities for your home.
